

Chet Gallagher's Court Date

Breaking News: 2/12/2014

Chet Gallagher calls today's court proceedings a "miracle." Chet, Roy MacMillan and other Mississippi saints were arrested this summer in front of Jackson's Women's Health Abortion clinic in Jackson, Mississippi. Chet was charged with interfering with the business, resisting arrest and a few other trumped up-charges. These arrests are due to the unholy alliance between the Jackson Police Dept. and the killing center. Sadly, "protect & serve" has become "persecute & slander." The picture at right shows another example of police harassment as these three including Harriet Ashley were arrested for reading their Bibles at the clinic.

After coming back to Jackson in the fall of 2013 for trial the case was postponed until today because the arresting officers did not show. Imagine what would have happened if Chet did not appear!!

Chet returned to Jackson again for trial and his lawyer Steve was immediately offered a "deal" by the prosecutor who seemed to be beginning to understand how fruitless this case was becoming. After talking to the Mississippi people Chet told his lawyer that he wanted to go to trial.

Upon returning to the court they were told they were being given a "dismiss" on the resisting arrest charge, the most serious of the charges, and a postpone on the lesser charge. The court also ordered that Chet's bail be returned to him as the serious charge had been dismissed. The "interfering with a business" charge was postponed until July 28, the Monday after the National Event in New Orleans. Many of us will be joining Chet in Mississippi on our way home from New Orleans.

The saints of Mississippi continue to have "church" on the public sidewalk in front of the last abortion clinic in Mississippi and Satan is furious. He knows he cannot win because God has promised the gates of hell will not prevail against his Church.
